

To support children with their learning, behavioural and emotional needs at Queen Vic, we have a group of highly skilled staff who make up our Well Being Team. This team works with children to assist them with their learning needs (SEND) by the use of precision teaching, or supporting them with their emotional and behavioural needs (Pastoral) through in-class support or specific intervention programmes.

As a school, we realise that a small number of children need more support with their behaviour, consequently we ensure that behaviour plans and strategies are put in place, with trained staff supporting these children, and communicating and working with parents for the benefit of their child.
